

MORNING APPEAL.

Thursday.....March 3 1887.

McCONNELL'S QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Yesterday Mr. McConnell rose to a question of privilege and denounced the APPEAL for its article on the "Boomerang." That the tactics of the opposition did act as a boomerang there can be no doubt as on the final passage of the bill the vote showed it most conclusively. The editor of the APPEAL was not present during Mr. McConnell's speech but understands that he considered himself charged with taking advantage of a death in Mr. Rice's family. As for charging Mr. McConnell with taking such an advantage the APPEAL did not so intend. From a long personal acquaintance with Mr. McConnell the editor of this paper knows that he would not knowingly take such an advantage of any one. The APPEAL spoke in a general way of how the fight against the bill was commented on after Mr. Rice was granted leave of absence, and accused no individual of having a bad motive in the matter. Since McConnell feels that those remarks were directed personally to him the APPEAL's open apologies are here tendered. The statement that many had "voted against the bill out of friendship for McConnell" was not intended to convey the idea that those who changed their votes considered McConnell's tactics an attack upon Rice's affections.

A DEAD BILL.

The bill providing for a railroad franchise between Reno and Virginia City is about the boldest cinch bill yet introduced. It was expected to make a great excitement and cause the people of Carson and the V. & T. to come out with an immense sack. The bill was simply a laughing stock as soon as it appeared, and notwithstanding that no one has made the slightest opposition, it is already a crushed and withered flower. The incorporators, if they secured the franchise, could not build a turn-table for a starter.

If anyone wants to build a road over the route named, they can do so by simply raising the money and building it.

But from the fact that there is a Carson paper favoring the bill, the APPEAL would not have felt called upon to allude to it.

The recent visit of the Czar of Russia to Paris is big with results. It seems as though the despot of the North has struck hands with the Gallic republic. When war breaks out between France and Germany, the Czar is to hold his Russians ready, and in case the flag of France is again borne backward, is to throw his military strength upon Germany from the rear. In case France is victorious Russia is to work her will with Germany, and Constantinople will be the prey of the Northern bear. If such an alliance has been formed there is little doubt but that France will at once precipitate the conflict with Germany. The alliance of Russia and France is the most formidable combination upon European cards. Had the first Napoleon instead of "placing his foot upon that abyss, covered with flowers, the Austrian marriage" raised a Russian Princess to his Imperial throne, the Bonaparts and the Romanoff had divided the Empire of Europe between them.

A Rev. Mr. Baxter has muddled himself with figures and developed into a full fledged crank. He has ciphered out from the Book of Daniel and the Revelations of St. John that the world is to come to an end in 1900. At the same time he insists upon two conditions precedent which, if he is right, may have the effect of postponing the final catastrophe. He announces that before the end of the world shall come Ireland must be free and France must conquer Germany.

Hugh J. Mohan, "The Young Irish Orator," who has been taking "pen portraits" of the State officers and members of the Legislature, has concluded to present the gentlemen with copies of a fine supplement issued by the Reno Gazette at 25 cents per copy. They are carefully and ably prepared, and are worth all asked for them.
